Credit Reference Agencies

We share your information with:

- other companies in our group
- credit reference agencies, so we can:
 - do a credit check – this can affect your credit score (we don't do one if you're just opening a savings account)
 - do an identity check – this could be done on you and anyone else who's linked to the account, but it doesn't affect your credit score
 - protect you and comply with laws – we must share information about how you manage your account, like payments made in, your balance, credit limits and any missed loan payments. They may also share this with other organisations.
- fraud prevention agencies, and we also record any identified or suspected fraud, which could mean we have to refuse to provide you with services
- our business partners, like the company that makes our debit and credit cards
- industry regulators, government departments and similar organisations, like HM Revenue and Customs, who might in turn have to share it with other countries.

Credit reference and fraud prevention agencies use your information because they have to prevent fraud and money laundering, to protect you, their business and to comply with laws.
